Namaste! My name is _____, and I am with Oxford Policy Management, Kathmandu. We are conducting a survey on behalf of the Government of Nepal, Health Insurance Board, and Social Security Fund, with technical support from the Asian Development Bank. This study has been approved by the Nepal Health Research Council (NHRC). The purpose of this study is to learn about your household's use of healthcare services, healthcare costs, and experiences with health insurance schemes like the National Health Insurance Program (NHIP). We will ask about your household's demographics (e.g., age, family size), economic activities (e.g., income, expenses), use of healthcare services, costs of care, and your opinions on the quality and accessibility of healthcare. Your participation is completely voluntary. You may choose not to participate, skip any question, or stop the survey at any time without giving a reason. Your decision will not affect your current or future access to healthcare, insurance, or any other benefits. All information you provide will be kept strictly confidential. Your name will not be linked to your answers, and the data will be used only for research to improve health insurance programs in Nepal. The survey will take approximately 2 hours to complete. If you have any questions, concerns, or want to learn more about the study, please contact Dr. Suresh Tiwari at Oxford Policy Management, Dharamarg, Maharajgunj, Kathmandu, Phone: 977-01-5912451/5912452,

Section 1: Household Roster

Objective

This section has two main objectives:

- To collect demographic information of all household members (e.g., gender, age, marital status, etc.).
- To collect information on whether the parents of each household member are present in the household or not.

Respondent

Generally, the head of the household is the respondent for this section, as they are likely to have a good understanding of the household members.

Only if the head of the household is unavailable, the information should be collected from another knowledgeable household member.

Section 2: Household Characteristics

Objective

This section aims to collect information on the type of dwelling the household occupies, housing expenses, utilities and facilities (such as drinking water, electricity, sanitation, communication, and cooking fuel), as well as expenditures related to these items.

Respondent

The head of the household is the main respondent for this section. If the household head is not available, another household member with good knowledge of these matters should be consulted.

Points to Note

Before asking the questions in this section, it is helpful to first ask the respondent about their latest bills for telephone, water, and electricity. This helps the respondent recall relevant details more easily and may also reduce the time needed to complete this section.

This section collects detailed information on the food items consumed by the household over the past 7 days, whether:

- Produced by the household itself,
- Purchased from the market, or
- Received as gifts, donations, or in exchange for work (in-kind payment).

Only the quantity and value of the food actually consumed within the 7-day period should be recorded here, not the quantity or value of what was purchased or received during that time.

Part 3.1: Food at Home

This Part collects information on the quantity and total value of food items consumed at home over the past 7 days, whether they were home-produced, purchased from the market, or received as in-kind payments.

Part 3.2: Food Away from Home

This Part collects information on the number of times household members ate meals or snacks outside the home within the country in the past 7 days, along with the total amount of money spent on those occasions.

It includes commercial food service establishments like restaurants, street vendors, cafés, and similar vendors. This encompasses both on-premises consumption (e.g., dining in) and off-premises consumption (e.g., takeaway or delivery orders).

The questioning will follow the same two-stage approach:

- First, confirm whether the household consumed any such externally prepared items.
- If consumption occurred, then ask the total expenditure the household incurred to purchase them.

Additionally, for any meals received without payment—such as complimentary meals provided to your household members as guests, through employer benefits, community programs, or as gift - ask to estimate their equivalent market value (i.e., what they would have cost if purchased commercially).

“Tips: When valuing complimentary meals: If the respondent dined as a guest at someone’s home (non-commercial setting), apply market prices for equivalent restaurant meals. For employer-provided meals, use the vendor’s stated value or local market equivalent.

Section 4: Non-Food Expenditure & Inventory of Durable Goods

The objective of this section is to collect detailed information on all household expenditures on non-food items, both purchased and consumed, over the past 30 days and 12 months.

This section includes expenditures on various types of goods and services, such as: personal use items (e.g., clothing, shoes/slippers, grooming products), household use items (e.g., cooking fuel, heating equipment), services (e.g., haircuts, tuition fees), cleaning supplies, transportation, entertainment, medicines and healthcare, as well as other miscellaneous expenses.

It collects information on non-food expenditure and durable goods; the questions have been organized into four sub-sections (Parts).

Respondent

The respondent for this section can be the head of the household or another knowledgeable member of the household.

Part 4.3: Inventory of Durable Goods

This section asks about durable goods that the household has either purchased or received and are currently in working condition, such as vehicles, computers, printers, televisions/mobile phones, stoves, radios, cameras, heaters, fans, sewing machines, refrigerators, furniture, etc.

The questions include:

- Whether such durable goods are present in the household or not,
- If yes, how many such items are there,
- How many years ago were they acquired,
- What was the value at the time of acquisition, and
- If the item were to be sold in its current condition, how much could it be sold for?

First, it must be asked whether the household has any of these durable items currently in working condition. Only those items that are in use or are in a condition to be used with minimal repair are considered to be possessed by the household.

Here, the listed durable goods must be owned by the household. "Durable goods" refer to items (usually large) that typically last longer than one year.

This sub-section aims to assess the value of durable goods (fixed assets) used by the household over the past 12 months.

Using the depreciation method, this sub-section collects information on both the purchase value and the current value of the durable goods owned by the household, allowing for an estimate of their consumption over time.

Part 4.4: Own Account Consumption of Goods

This Part aims to collect information about the goods produced and consumed by the household itself. Goods produced for own consumption play an important role, so it is necessary to gather information about them. However, if such goods are used in any household business, they should not be included in this section. The value of the goods produced and consumed by the household over the past 12 months should be estimated based on prevailing market prices.

Goods produced by the household but not consumed by it should not be included here.

Section 6: Expense in Health

The objective of this section is to collect information on chronic and recent episodes of acute illnesses or injuries experienced by household members in the last 12 years and past 30 days respectively. Specifically, this section aims to:

- Identify health care seeking behaviour in relation to chronic and acute illness;
- Explore reasons for not seeking care such as affordability issues, distance, availability of services, or perceptions about the illness.;
- Type and level of health facility or provider consulted (e.g., public or private, formal or traditional, local or abroad);
- Identify if people are utilising existing government programs or utilising insurance scheme or paying out of pocket for treatment

Part 6.1: Screening for General Health Status

The objective of this Part is to assess the self-reported general health status of household members (more than 5 years) on the day of the interview.

Part 6.3.5: Acute Illness and Care Giver Burden

Record instances where a household member had to interrupt their regular activities (such as paid work, farming, household chores, education, or social activities) to care for someone with an acute illness.

Determine the duration and type of activities affected and identify who was cared for. Estimate the loss of income incurred due to caregiving responsibilities for sick household members.

Section 7: Labor and Employment

This section collects detailed information on the main work activities performed during the last 7 days by each household member aged 10 years and above who is economically active, earning wages/salary or making a profit. It also aims to identify the employment status of individuals. The purpose is to distinguish between various types of employment and other forms of work performed by individuals, and to identify those who are not employed. Based on the data from this section, it will be possible to estimate the proportion of the population in the working-age group who are employed, unemployed, or outside the labour force.

Section 8: Wage Jobs

This section covers the income of the individuals who work for salary or wage.

Wage or salary work refers to activities where an individual provides labour or time in exchange for cash or in-kind remuneration. These types of jobs are typically not directly linked to the profit or loss of the employer, and the workers themselves do not bear the risks or receive profits/losses.

Jobs or businesses where individuals bear profit and loss are covered under another section (non-agriculture enterprises/activities).

The questions in this section are related to wage or salary work done by individuals in both agriculture and non-agriculture sectors. It includes details of individuals who work either permanently or seasonally (or temporarily) in the agricultural sector under someone else's ownership. It also includes details of wage or salary work done in the non-agriculture sector.

Respondent

The eligible respondents for this section are all household members aged 10 years and above. The interview is to be conducted directly with the individual concerned. In doing so, the respondents can provide better and more accurate information regarding their activities and wage-related matters. In cases where the interviewee is a young child, their parents or guardians can provide information regarding the child's employment and income.

Section 9: Farming and Livestock

This section includes the following topics:

- Land and land use: Ownership of the household's land, its use, leasing arrangements, and any increase or decrease in landholding.
- Agricultural production and consumption: Agricultural output and its utilization.
- Agricultural inputs: Expenses on seeds/seedlings, fertilizers/pesticides, and wages paid to labourers.
- Income and expenses from agriculture: Income generated from and expenses incurred in agriculture.
- Livestock and poultry rearing: Livestock owned by the household and the related income and expenses.
- Agricultural tools and equipment: Ownership and valuation of agricultural tools and equipment.

Purpose: The purpose of this section is to collect detailed information on the income and expenses of the household from agriculture and livestock/poultry rearing.

Respondent:

- The respondent for this section should be the head of the household.
- If the head of the household is not available, the information should be collected from another household member who has adequate knowledge about agriculture and livestock/poultry rearing.

Part 9.1: Landholding

In this PART A, information is collected about the land used for cultivation that is owned by the household. Here, a “parcel” refers to a unit of land based on the land ownership certificate (Lal Purja). Separate information should be collected for each parcel.

If, within a single parcel, the household is both cultivating some part of the land themselves and has given some part (which is still under their ownership) to others for use or lease, then these two types of land use should be treated as two separate parcels: one for the land cultivated by the household and another for the land leased out or used by others.

Similarly, if within the same parcel, land owned by the household and land owned by others but currently being used by the household are combined and used together, then these two types of land use should also be treated as two separate parcels.

The details of the land owned and cultivated by the household should be recorded in PART A, while the details of the land owned by others but currently used by the household should be recorded in PART B.

Part 9.2: Landholding – Increase/Decrease

The objective of this part is to find out whether there was any increase or decrease in agricultural land owned by the household in the past 12 months. The reference period for this section is the past 12 months, not the agricultural year. Note that we are not asking about crops in this section.

Here, we only seek to collect information on the area and value of agricultural land that the household has purchased or sold, if any.

Since land sale and purchase is a very sensitive and personal matter, it is important to reassure the respondent or household that all the information provided will remain confidential.

Part 9.5: Livestock - Ownership

This PART E collects information on the number of livestock and poultry raised by the household, the income generated from their products, and the expenses incurred in purchasing and rearing them. If livestock or poultry are raised on someone else's property under a lease or other arrangement, the number of animals should be recorded under the household that is actually raising them. However, information on the production should only include the portion of income that the respondent's household actually receives.

Income earned by purchasing animal products from others and selling them (trading) should not be included here. For example, if a household buys milk from a village and makes yogurt to sell, the income they earn is valid, but it is not income from livestock farming. Such income should not be recorded here.

Section 10: Income from Non - Agricultural Enterprises

This section gathers information on self-employment activities and enterprises in the non-agricultural sector (regardless of whether they are small or large). For example, if a household operates a tea shop, it should be recorded in this section. Similarly, if a household runs a large factory, that too should be included here. Likewise, if household members produce items such as straw mats, brooms, stools, bamboo baskets, and similar goods, and if any portion of these is sold in the market to generate income, then that income-generating part should be mentioned in this section.

This section also collects expenditure occurred during 12 months for hiring personnel/labor, purchasing fuels, raw material costs, purchasing goods.
