Monetary Value Entries: Common Points of Confusion

Error Prominent Sections

1. Section 2
2. Section 9
3. Section 10

Ensure monetary values are entered correctly, verifying whether the amount should be monthly or yearly.

Checking Consistency Between Rent and Property Value

- A monthly rent of Rs. 80,000 for a property valued at Rs. 10,00,000 is inconsistent. Please ensure that the values make sense relative to each other.

	250000.00		500000.00

Ensuring Consistency Between Agricultural Expenses and Income

- A household reporting NRs. 30,000 on labor expenses and NRs. 15,000 on rented inputs, but has NRs. 0 in agricultural income, indicates inconsistent entries.

total_farm_income dbl	↑ 1 ⋮	total_farm_expenditure dbl	⋮
	0.00		41000.00
	0.00		32445.00
	0.00		41250.00

Checking Consistency Between Investment and Non-Agricultural Income

- A household with a shop invests NRs. 10,00,000 in goods but reports only NRs. 45,000 as income. Ensure that non-agricultural income aligns with stock and investments.

Consistent Remittance Income

- Household members who have migrated within the country should also be recorded in the remittance section.
- A household has a son or daughter who's been abroad for years, however, the household hasn't received any remittances while the household members have no other source of income.

Please verify such entries logically.

For SSF and Non-SSF Entries

- PSUs serve as comparison groups, for example, 3433 will be compared with 3333. Supervisors should review and verify the PSU entries for SSF and non-SSF data before submission.

You can submit such entries in bulk to streamline the reviewing process.

- Household ID (hhld) variable for SSF and non-SSF can be tricky as it isn't similar to NHIP and non-NHIP strata. Therefore, the supervisors must note down the number of households interviewed SSF and non-SSF PSUs.
